First Action on the Merits

1. Claim 1 of U.S. Application 10/757,043 filed on 01/14/2004 are presented for examination.

Quotations of U.S. Code Title 35

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent No. 4,214,300 ("Barlow") in view of U.S. Patent No. 5,838,561 ("Owen").

Regarding claim 1

Barlow teaches a method of adjusting the performance of a model-free adaptive controller having a delay predictor, comprising the steps of:

- establishing a selectable performance index I_p ranging from substantially 0.01 to substantially 100 (col. 2 lines 20-29); and
- setting the controller gain as $K_c = I_p/K$, where K_c is the controller gain, K is the estimated process static gain, and I_p is the selected performance index (col. 3 lines 42-55).

Barlow does not specifically teach setting the controller time constant as $T_c = T/I_p$, where T_c is the controller time constant, T is the estimated time constant of said delay predictor, and I_p is the selected performance index.

However, Owen teaches setting the controller time constant as $T_c = T/I_p$, where T_c is the controller time constant, T is the estimated time constant of said delay predictor, and I_p is the selected performance index (col. 8 lines 41-60) for the purpose of detecting malfunction of a process control system using performance index. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to incorporate the method involving an estimated time constant of Owen with the method of Barlow because it would provide for the purpose of detecting malfunction of a process control system using performance index.

Art Unit: 2121

It should be noted that the specific equations set forth in the claim are given very little patentable weight. In the absence of any new or unexpected results, the method of Barlow and/or Owen are considered to be the same as applicant's.
